About the UKULELE WORKSHOP

It might have a funny name, but the Ukulele has been experiencing a groundswell of interest in Australia in recent years. Originating in Hawaii in the 19th century, this highly portable and eminently affordable little instrument is attracting widespread attention and popularity.

Participants to these one-day workshops will quickly learn to play tunes, recognise chord shapes, use a variety of strum patterns and gain sufficient knowledge and skill to be able to continue on their own learning path towards playing this serious, yet fun musical instrument. Loads of information is provided about the history of the instrument and the many types of ukuleles available. These one-day workshops are also about having lots of fun - which is why they will fill up fast!

The Ukulele has the potential to tackle sophisticated material from a range of musical genres – from jazz to country and rock. Participants can bring their own pre-tuned instrument OR purchase one from John on the day, at a cost of $30.

Follow in the footsteps of George Harrison,
Izrael Kamakawiwo'ole and Jake Shimabukuro!
Explore unfulfilled musical talent or add to current music skills!

About JOHN CHANDLER

A regular performer at ukulele festivals, John has been running a Sydney based Ukulele club for five years. John studied with leading ukulele teachers and performers in Australia and Hawaii. With his trademark Hawaiian shirts and stunning collection of 60 “ukes”, his knowledge is first-class and enthusiasm infectious. John regularly gives private lessons and offers group tuition in courses in thirteen Adult Education Colleges in and around Sydney. John has taught hundreds of new students over many years, many of whom are now actively involved in the ukulele scene or continue to play for their own enjoyment.
